The DIMMER VIEW

A View of Teachers' Unions

Values have changed dramatically in our times.

There were the WWII scandals; dishonesty in the government through every regime in recent years; the Big Oil ripoffs which brought on conservationists; Big Auto and Big Builder which brought on ecologists; sex libbers, who brought on child porn, and Watergate, which brought on a good movie and several lucrative teevee features — all of which gnawed at faith and trust we Americans had in one another.

More recently we had the spectre of less-than-honest teachers who defied a court order to end a strike in San Diego. Students have been chastised for less disobedience, so who can blame them for a degree of revolution when a penalty is laid on them by a teacher who has flouted the law.

Teachers may be able to beg off some responsibility by saying they were following instructions of their teachers union leader.

And therein lies an argument made by Reed Larson, a writer for the Right to Work News Service.

Let's look at his critique:

"For the time being, at least, the matter of forcing public employees to join unwanted unions moves back to the political arena after 9 agonizing years in the courts.

"On May 23, in a case involving some 600 City of Detroit school teachers, the U.S. Supreme Court gave its stamp of approval to compulsory 'agency shop' arrangements in the public sector — arrangements which force public workers to pay money to unions in order to work for their own government.

"The Detroit teachers had asked the court to declare the 'agency shop' unconstitutional. The court decided otherwise.

"Since the courts ruled unanimously that the money from public workers couldn't be spent to promote political and ideological causes, however, that part of the case now goes to trial.

"Another case, challenging compulsory union representation — the foundation of the 'agency shop' — is now in the federal courts. So there is still hope the judiciary will take a firm stand for individual freedom of choice. But until it does, the question of voluntary or compulsory unionism for public employees will be argued and decided on in the political arena.

"Currently, only 15 states permit the unionization of public employees. 32 states have laws forbidding the firing of school teachers, firemen, social workers, police and other public servants who refuse to pay money to unions.

"Union officials don't like those odds and are doing all they can to change them.

"Union lobbyists are pouring money hand over fist into California, Illinois, New York, Ohio and other states which now guarantee their public employees the right to work in an effort to push through new laws which would strip the employees of their individual rights.

"Public opinion is squarely opposed to forced unionism — whether in the public or private sector. According to a study by the Roper Organization released May 26, only 17 per cent of the public favors 'arrangements requiring public employees to support a union in order to work for the government.' 69 per cent were opposed to such an arrangement and some political leaders understand this.

"When the Maine legislature recently passed a bill which would have legalized compulsory public sector unionism, Gov. James Langley, the state's popular Independent governor, vetoed the bill — and for all the right reasons.

"I cannot approve of legislation which would require that State employees or any other public employees must pay a fee to an organization for the privilege of working for their own government," the governor said.

"Just as citizens in government should have an opportunity to dissent and to vote opposition, members in an organization which is supported by its members and is to serve as a representative of its members should also be subject to the same kind of scrutiny . . .

"Maine people are independent people. They are not afraid to speak their minds and to stand up and be counted. You cannot coerce respect from them. You have to earn it. With that in mind I am respectfully returning this legislation without my approval," said the governor.

"His words should be must reading in every classroom, every city councilman and every state House in the country. It is full of the passion and wisdom that is sorely needed these days, even in the Supreme Court."

EPIC Fundraisers Friday, Saturday

The Effective Problem Intervention Center (EPIC) may run out of funds due to a delay in funds from several grants, it was asserted here early this week.

Immediate need is money to keep operating some of the summer programs including the youth summer program, according to Ronald K. Loughlin, one of the group's directors.

The first fund-raiser will be Friday 6-10 p.m. at the Carman Ranch club, 2515 Sweetwater rd., Spring Valley. A supervised party, open to all youngsters, will benefit the project. Among the attractions will be swimming in a heated pool, dancing on the tennis court, playing electronic games and eating. The $2 fee covers everything including a door prize drawing.

On Saturday, EPIC plans an all-adult party of Fun and Games at a private residence. A contribution of $3 a person or $5 a couple is requested. Music, games, food, bar, a door prize and new friends is on the evening's list. All proceeds go to the EPIC program.

Tickets are available at the EPIC office, 3319 Buena Vista. Phone contact is 464-3742.

Cityhood Urged

Last week, the County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously to note and file a recommendation from the City Selection Committee in which the Committee encouraged the Board and the Local Agency Formation Commission, where possible, to foster annexation or urban unincorporated area into cities.

$189,000 Lost in Deadline Requirements

L.G. City Fans Out on Bid For Quarterly Sales Tax

Good news was lacking Thursday night when the Lemon Grove City Council-to-be gathered at 7 p.m. at the Lemon Grove Fire Station meeting room.

As the script unwound, it was learned that the County of San Diego, in all of its expertise and knowledge, has misjudged a sales tax return deadline by 10 days.

It might not have meant much to Charlotte Langley, Management assistant of the Intergovernmental Affairs office of the County, who put the study together, but it means a minus $189,000 to the new city.

The $189,000 is the amount of money the State will not refund from sales and use tax income which Lemon Grove City anticipated for the quarter starting July 1. It would have been given to the City about October 15.

To be eligible for that quarter, the city would have had to enact an ordinance establishing the State as the authority to withhold and return part of the sales tax.

Bob Linstrom, Principle Sales Tax Compliance Officer for the State said the City of Lemon Grove will have returned to it one cent of the six cents sales tax payment charged on purchases within the Lemon Grove city boundaries. "There will be a service charge but that will be minimal," Linstrom said. He said the return would be on the quarter next following the signing of the agreement with the State.

But the City had no authority to enact an ordinance on June 20 because there was not yet a city and the council was only an advisory body to the board of supervisors.

The ordinance may be passed.

Spend Surplus and Borrow Idea Rejected

Fire Board Offers City Financially Sound Dept.

The board of directors of the Lemon Grove Fire Protection District which has openly acknowledged operating "one of the finest and most efficient Fire Departments in San Diego County" underlined a determination to keep it that way and "not turn over to the new city of Lemon Grove a zero-based under-financed operation."

It was the Monday night budget meeting with a group of about 30 persons in attendance. Usually there are only two or three. Making up a large part of the audience were several of the candidates who ran for the 5 seats on the city council. Three of the successful ones make up the directorship of the L.G. FPD — Jim Dorman, Dr. Robert Burns and Dell Lake.

Following the part of the meeting during which a self-insurance program was discussed, the board got right down to the budget with its $105,000 surplus.

That is what most of the audience came to discuss. The board established a need for the surplus by discussing the loss of $5 million assessed valuation due to the loss of Vista La Mesa during a pre-election boundary adjustment.

Fire Tax Rate

The board also fretted over the extent of the higher assessed valuation in remaining area. "We'll have to wait until we are able to get an official readout," suggested counsel V. J. Dorman. "We can't set a tax rate until we know what the property value will be."

The Fire Board discussed the need for a surplus. "If a piece of equipment breaks down we'll have to borrow money unless we have the money labeled 'surplus,'" it was agreed.

The Fire District will be absorbed by the City in November, 1977 and the City will have to support it from then. But the City tax rate will not

A group of about 60 young adults, all members of the Optimists Club of San Diego's Band and Flag Corps, left this morning for a six day concert tour of Guadalajara, Mexico, to present a key to the mayor there, and to help form a sister chapter of Optimists International.

The group, led by Karen Way and Merl Coady, both of Lemon Grove, left at 9:30 a.m. from Tijuana Airport bound for the Mexican City for performances at the Plaza de las Mariachis tomorrow night, at Degolado Theatre Saturday night, a parade at the Plaza de las Liberacion Sunday morning, a concert at the Concha Acustica Agua Azul that night, and a concert with the Guadalajara Municipal Band on Monday.

The group will present the key to San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson's office to the mayor of Guadalajara during the concert Monday with the Municipal Band.

At the invitation of the Mexican government, the group will act as official representatives of the local Optimist Club to prompt the formation of a sister Optimist club in the Mexican city.

The band and flag drill team has won honors from performances at the Calgary Stampede in Canada and has been in existence since 1973.

Mrs. Karen Way, flag team director, added the group will perform American numbers.

"It's not our plan to go down there to show them how well we play their music," she concluded.

PROGRAM — 'Charlie' Gunderson, Miss Lemon Grove, displays the inaugural incorporation magazine program which will be available at Marders, Dell Trophies, Food Factory, Broadway Hardware and the L.G. Chamber of Commerce. It sells for $1 and proceeds will help cover the cost of the Inaugural Council Ceremony Friday at 8 p.m. in the L.G. Junior High School auditorium.

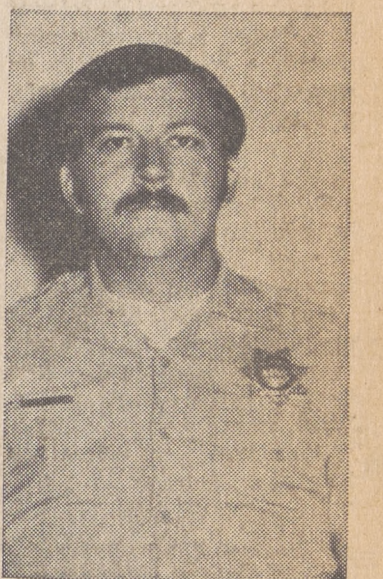

Two Deputies Resign Here Over Wages

Two sheriff's deputies of the Lemon Grove office have resigned "for financial reasons" stemming from the County Board of Supervisors "stalling on wage negotiations."

And the word is that there'll be more.

Detective Richard "Rick" Lindsey, a veteran of 9 years, filed his letter of resignation with Sheriff John Duffy Monday. In it he cited his family's need for financial aid . . . that the increasing cost of living and property taxes coupled with failure of obtaining salary increases by deputies since 1975 have resulted "in a substantial decrease in my buying power."

He said also that the supervisors' failure to bargain in good faith (on salaries) frustrated him.

Patrolman William Ralph, a deputy for 6 1/2 years, resigned with "financial reasons" given as the cause.

Both men are said to be seeking more financially rewarding posts elsewhere.

Sgt. Roger Jacobs, in charge of detectives at the Lemon Grove station, said Lindsay

What is a City?

2. Limitations upon Official Action

PUBLIC EXPENDITURES — All public funds must be expended for a public or municipal purpose and there may not be a "gift" of public funds for a private purpose.

The taxpayers' monies cannot be diverted into projects other than those which serve a public or municipal purpose. An improper expenditure (not authorized by law) may result in personal liability.

DEBT — A city may not contract to expend in any fiscal year in excess of current revenues plus reserves. A city has no power to incur a present debt in excess of its present ability to pay, and thus cannot purchase property on the installment plan or on a conditional sales contract. Financing must be accomplished through bonding, assessment district, non-profit corporations, joint authority, lease-options, lease-leasebacks, redevelopment agencies, tax increment bonds or short term borrowing.

EMINENT DOMAIN — The power of eminent domain or condemnation is the right to take property for public purposes — for example, to build a city hall or acquire a park. Property, however, may not be taken unless the owner is paid the fair market value for the property in cash.

Conversely, whenever a city inadvertently takes or damages private property, or exacts it as a condition to permit (unless justified under the police power) it must pay fair value.

DISCRIMINATION — A city must not enforce its rules, regulations or ordinances on a discriminatory basis in favor of any individual person, race or segment of its population, but all facilities, rules, regulations and ordinances must be applicable on an equal basis.

EQUAL PROTECTION — All laws and ordinances must be so written as to apply equal protection to all facets of the population; it is improper to adopt a regulation which applies only to certain individuals or classes, unless the classification is germane to the purpose of regulation.

PRE-EMPTION — This is a long and involved subject and one currently in the state of flux especially in the field of morals and morality. Generally it may be stated that a city is but a creature of the state and subservient thereto and therefore cannot make any rule or regulation which conflicts with the implicit policies or regulations of the state.

DUE-PROCESS — In all procedural function of local government whether legislative, administrative or quasi-judicial, the council must accord due process.

This term is somewhat amorphous but in general means conforming to fundamental principles of justice and constitutional guarantees.

Unfair determinations, such as bias, predetermination, refusal to hear, etc., may invalidate action.

There's An Answer

by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale

Druggist Q. I am 18 years old and have been taking drugs for four years. I am presently in a county jail.

My nerves are so bad from drug withdrawal that I have sores and scabs all over.

I've been reading your book, The Power of Positive Thinking, Dr. Peale, and I love it. Could you please tell me how I can have the power to quit drugs?

A. You have already made a start toward kicking the drug habit by reading about positive thinking and then writing to ask how you can have the power.

Here are six steps to take: 1. Want to overcome this habit, really want to. 2. Affirm repeatedly until your mind takes over the fact that you can do it. 3. Keep filling your mind with positive attitudes. 4. Ask God to help you. 5. Believe that He is helping you now. 6. Practice visualization; that is, see or image yourself as free of this devastating habit.

Good luck.

We have a booklet, "Help Yourself with God's Help", which has helped others with questions such as yours, and a copy of it is on its way to you.

Anyone reading this column who wishes a free copy may write for one. Address your request to Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

14 Year Old

Q. Why is it that if God is so loving and merciful does he allow little children to suffer so much? Why!!!

For instance little children around the age of three or four and younger get abused by their parents or guardians. What have they ever done?

I'm only 14 and unless you help me I'll never love God any more. I understand that God didn't create all the bad things that are in the world, man did, but little children didn't either.

Please help me find an answer.

A. You must not let your love depend on whether we help you. You see, we are not any wiser than anybody else. We just try to help people in our own way.

God paid a great compliment to the human race when he gave people freedom of choice and action. He trusted his human creatures to act right. But he gave them the choice to do wrong if they wish.

For them to hurt little children pains him even more than it hurts you. Instead of crying about it, your job and ours is to help these little children, and also the people who mistreat them.

Find out if there is an agency in your community that deals with this problem and talk with them.

Perhaps you would like to find an answer to a problem in THERE'S AN ANSWER! If there is something you would like to ask Dr. Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

City of Hope Drive Near End in S.D.

Men, women and children of San Diego County have been provided free care equivalent to more than $185,000 in the last five years at the City of Hope Medical Center.

Actress Lee Meriwether, honorary chairwoman for Hope Month during June in San Diego County, emphasized this point as the month long door-to-door campaign enters its final two weeks.

"This is medical and hospital care which the medical center provides absolutely without charge to the patient or family," she said. "The medical center, now in its 64th year, has provided many more thousands of dollars to county residents who have received outpatient care and services."

San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson, honorary county chairman notes "It takes nearly $80,000 each and every day to open the doors of the City of Hope to the afflicted." The Hope Month campaign when thousands of "Volunteers for Hope," solicit their neighbors for donations provides badly needed funds for the medical center programs of patient care, research and education in the catastrophic diseases of cancer and leukemia; heart, blood and respiratory afflictions; diabetes and other disorders of metabolism and heredity.

Conf. Asks for $9 Million In Donations

Methodist Backed Health Centers Locked in Money Woes

The Pacific and Southwest Conference of the United Methodist Church has decided to call on the local churches to raise some $9 million during the next nine years to save the church-related retirement homes and convalescent care centers from bankruptcy.

During the annual conference held in Redlands June 10-15, Pacific and Southwest Conference Methodist decided to raise the money to bail out the financially troubled Pacific Homes, a corporation sponsored by the Methodist Conferences.

Pacific Homes house about 2,000 residents in California, Arizona, and Hawaii. The houses have been losing money at a rate of 1/2 million dollars a month due to inflation and the sharp increase in medical fees and costs of care. Officials at the homes indicate life care contracts covering some 1,500 of the residents are no longer adequate to provide for the care.

The Homes management had sought permission to renegotiate existing contracts with residents earlier this year, but the California State Department of Health and Welfare Agencies denied the request.

Following the denial by the state agency, the Board of Directors of the Pacific Homes filed a Voluntary Reorganization proceeding with the Federal District Court in Los Angeles on February 13.

Funding Campaign Approved The Annual Conference in Redlands adopted an alternative plan to commit an immediate $1.2 million for the operation of the Homes during the period of reorganization in Federal Court.

Some $800,000 in gifts and pledges had already been received in response to the Cabinet's appeal for these funds by June 15. These funds were to be deposited with Court in a special account and used for operations during the reorganization.

A special council wide fund raising campaign had to be organized to raise the remaining $7.8 million needed between 1977 and 1986.

According to treasurer John Kirkman there will be an additional hold on this money.

"All funds raised over and above the $1.2 million will be placed in a trust account and will be released for the Homes only after the successful completion of the Final Plan of Arrangement, the formal agreement of reorganization involving all parties of interest," said Kirkman.

The resolution adopted by the Conference states that the commitment of funds in excess of the original $1.2 million shall be subject to an express condition that A Plan of Arrangement acceptable to all parties of the Pacific Homes proceeding in court, including the Annual Conferences. The court is expected to confirm the idea by December 1 of this year.

Borrowing Authorized

The Conference also supported a borrowing measure for the directors of Pacific Homes — up to $6 million — should another cash flow crisis arise.

The 'Young' Glasses

Dear Editor:

I've been thinking a great deal about glasses. Yep, the ones on the end of some of our noses. Those of you that have to wear them will understand, the lucky ones that have never had to wear glasses might have some trouble.

When we first got those glasses to correct nearsighted visual problems we had headaches, nose pains, and general discomfort. We tried to take the glasses off and see the old way. It was more comfortable and easier to endure. However things never appeared as they once did, they changed with clarity.

I think that's what's happening to us all with people like Andrew Young. There is a lot of flap about what he's said and a lot of people are angry. Well, things ain't ever gonna be the same again, folks. Never.

Mr. Young brings clarity and common sense to an office too long inhabited by mush mouthed closed minds that wanted to keep everyone else guessing about what was going on. First Mr. Moynahan was a little rude to some tinnhorn two-bit con artists and now Mr. Young appears to grasp more readily some of the finer points of idiocy, i.e., expose it and condemn it for what it really is.

Too bad some of us can't stand the clear light of day and enjoy the new view without having to take off those glasses to relieve the headaches.

Sign-up Time

Dear Editor:

For some time I have been conducting a "one man crusade" to try and get a sign put up on Highway 94 — showing the turn-off ramp to Spring Valley.

After going through a number of people in California Dept. of Transportation, I finally got to the right men — Gene Marshall, Jacob Dekema, and M. A. Chase.

I finally received a letter from the Dept. of Transportation in which they state that the off-ramp sign showing where Spring Valley is, will be put up. The first letter I received said "can" be replaced — but finally this was corrected to "WILL" be replaced.

I think a lot of people in Spring Valley will appreciate having a sign on the freeway No. 94, showing where to turn off for Spring Valley.

All Meals are provided under the watchful supervision of persons well schooled in preparing the special foods required for each patient.

Louise Lee Moves Takes Added Job

Louise Lee, 77, who has operated an alteration shop at the same location in Lemon Grove for nearly a quarter century, is moving. Actually it is only 22 years. The shop is at 3445 Imperial ave. in the Southland Music firm's building.

It isn't that business is bad. Personal affairs has dictated the decision. She isn't retiring—just moving.

On May 22, 1970 her husband died. On May 24 her son passed. The family operates an auto storage facility on their residence property at 9054 Olive dr., Spring Valley. With the two men in the family gone she elected to operate her alteration shop from her home at the Olive st. address. Someone has to be there because owners may call for their vehicles at any hour of the day or night.

Still a vibrant, healthy woman, she enjoys keeping busy. In addition to handling a score of jobs in her Lemon Grove shop last week, she handling storing 5 autos in the Spring Valley yard. The storage yard is a 50x275 converted chicken house at her home. The family raised chickens when they came here from Cleveland more than 30 years ago.

"When I opened my shop 22 years ago the building was still a movie house and features were being shown every night," she said.

She worries about her many patrons who depend on her for the problems with clothes when they lose weight or more likely, become obese.

Her phone number remain the same, she said.

Doctor Urges Women To Watch for Rubella

A UCSD doctor is urging area women of childbearing age to get immunization for german measles as soon as possible.

The doctor, assistant professor of pediatrics Dr. Kenneth L. Jones, said there has been a 69 per cent increase in the number of rubella cases reported for the first 17 weeks of this year and the disease is threatening some 50 million women nationally.

The doctor said outbreaks of the disease have been reported by the National Foundation of the March of Dimes in New Jersey, New York, Ohio, and Tennessee.

"Surveys made by the March of Dimes indicate about 10 per cent of the women of childbearing age have no immunity against rubella," said Jones. "To prevent the needless tragedy of birth defects caused by rubella, expanded immunization efforts are urgently needed."

Rubella causes infant death, blindness, heart damage, and mental retardation.

Girl Scouts Help Find Lost Parents

For the seventeenth year, San Diego Goodwill Industries in cooperation with the Girl Scouts of America, is playing the key role in helping to reunite lost children with their parents at the 1977 Southern California Exposition and San Diego County Fair at Del Mar.

Allen J. Sutherland, Goodwill President, said Goodwill has set up a special "Good Willy" booth at the entrance of the fair, so named after the now well-known character created for Goodwill by Milton Caniff, famed cartoonist.

Mrs. Louis Glasgow, girl scout co-ordinator for the project, said 250 girl scouts have volunteered time and effort daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. With parents consent, the girls attach "Good Willy" I.D. tags on youngsters which read: "If my parents get lost, take me to the first aid station."

At that point, fair management takes over and usually locates parents in short order.

Eugene Morrill, Executive Goodwill director, praised the work of the girl scouts in tagging approximately 26,000 children last year.

New Studies On Cancer Show Slim Gains in Fight

New data collected by the American Cancer Society on the number two killer of people in the United States show there is some progress against cancer even though the cause of the disease remains unsolved.

Cancer, the uncontrolled growth and spread of abnormal cells in the body, will kill about 115,000 people this year, second only to number one killer heart disease.

Early in this century few cancer victims had any hope of survival. By the 1930's the chances of living more than five years after treatment was one in five. In 1950, the odds bettered to a one in four.

Currently, the chances of being alive after treatment is set at a one in three. Today, for every cancer patient alive after treatment only two others die — a far better track record than the 1930's one victim alive for every four that die rate.

The American Cancer Society said some 54 million Americans will eventually contract cancer. The disease will strike roughly two out of every three American families.

The Society estimates in the 1970's, 3.5 million people will die of cancer there will be 6 1/2 million new cases and 10 million will be under medical care for the disease.

According to the American Cancer Society the number of new cancer cases will be highest in the colon-rectum area of the body although the highest number of deaths in 1977 will occur from lung cancer.

The Society estimates 89,000 will die from lung cancer as compared to 51,000 with colon-rectum cancer.

Also, the Society estimates 26 per cent of the cases in women will be breast cancer even though evidence of increased smoking in women has caused a jump in lung cancer. The lung cancer incidence rate in women has tripled from 4.0 per 100,000 in 1950 to 12.3 per 100,000 in 1974.

Drops in cancer found in the larynx, prostate, stomach, kidney, bladder, brain, oral cavity, thyroid and for Hodgkin's disease have all occurred.

Treatment
Treatment is varied and includes both chemotherapy and super-voltage radiation. Blood transfusions are also used along with Computerized Axial Tomography a new method to detect the location and size of tumors.

Some bone cancer patients are treated by surgery and currently under development is immunotherapy — a method of helping the body produce its own disease fighting system. Laboratory animals have shown abilities to become immune by such vaccines as BCG, a stimulant which allows the body to develop cancer fighting antibodies.

The American Cancer Society reiterated its position against the use of Laetrile, a substance found in the pits of apricots. The drug's use was recently given approval by the California legislature.

The Society said Laetrile's active ingredient, amygdalin, contains non-toxic cyanide and enough of the drug could cause death quicker than the cancer itself.

"Depending on dosage and method of application," said Helene Brown, Executive Director of Community Cancer Control in Los Angeles, "amygdalin (Laetrile) may or may not be toxic. Non-toxicity has nothing to do with effectiveness."

"Most tap water is non-toxic, but nobody would recommend it for the treatment of cancer," she continued. "The poison in amygdalin is cyanide. There is no reason to believe that the cyanide will show favoritism toward one kind of cell as against another. When enough cyanide is released in the intestine, poisoning of the entire body can result."

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

Join the Charger Backers and maybe save your life.

There's a story making the rounds about half-past every football season that deals with the inebriated fan. Now that could mean any one of hundreds of folks that haul in their own refreshments, sit in the sun and get vocal after a couple of swallows of bottled "loud mouth." San Diego Stadium ain't the only place they come, but we got our share.

But that ain't the way this one goes. This has nothing to do with these unsportsmen like types that ruin the game for others. This doesn't include the foul mouthed, over loud, under reasoning, sorry excuse for humanity that enjoys the game only through the bottom of a bottle and seldom remembers the score until he mumbles through Jerry Magee's game story in the Monday morning paper.

Everybody has seen one or two characters like that draw seats nearby and promptly ruin the game for you, your seat neighbors and most of the section. We certainly can do without folks like that at games, in bars, in cars, on the beach or anywhere else within reach. They're a bunch of spoil sports.

Now that you know what this tale is not about, I'll tell you what it does cover. An inebriated fan who was (1) foolish, (2) in the wrong place, (3) taking chances and (4) lucky as hell.

It was a dark, cold night in Oakland, a Saturday night when Oakland cops travel in pairs of squadcars, with the doors locked from the inside. It was November and there was a light rain. It was not a good night, nor a good place for our hero to be. Yet, there he was. Half in the bag and singing on a street corner.

It was a night before the annual Charger-Oakland game and a number of the Charger faithful had journeyed to the enemy's camp.

Our hero, who still lives and dies with the Chargers, wandered away from the gathering of the Charger-Oakland joint Fan bash and somehow drifted through the darkness of Oakland, no doubt stopping here and there for liquid refreshment, until he found a friendly streetlight.

For want of better support, our hero grabbed the streetlight post and hung on until the tidal wave of unpopular support passed on the gusts of air that also carried his rendition of the Charger's fight song out over San Francisco Bay.

Oaklanders only take two things seriously. They love their Raiders and they hate the Chargers. Not necessarily in that order.

Just before our hero was stoned, throttled and burned at the stake a rather large gendarme arrived on the scene and claimed the lost soul he found.

"It's all right," he told the gathered Oaklanders. "He's a Charger Backer that seems lost. All Charger Backers get amnesty here this week. It's part of the treaty. If you fault him we're liable to lose prisoners next time we play in San Diego."

The good officer was, in private life, an Oakland Backer and was fully acquainted with the trade of trips between his group and the loyal and faithful of the San Diego Chargers. And of how each group visits the other during the course of a football season, where a mighty blast with much merriment and refreshment is part of the deal.

He escorted the wayward Charger Backer back to the lawful party and, when in less than an hour he went off duty, he joined in the celebration and pre-game revelry.

There are other reasons that entice men, women and other football fans to join such a stalwart gathering as the Charger Backers.

They enjoy such things as the annual Backer/Player's Golf tournament (coming up Monday, as a matter of fact), Kickoff dinner, Awards Banquet, pre-home-game luncheon and a sponsored scrimmage. Lots of fun things. But nothing as important as the junket to Oakland.

This year the Chargers open at Oakland on Sunday, Sept. 18. So, if you want to save your life and still sing the Charger fight song on a downtown Oakland street on Sept. 17th, better join the Charger Backers right away. What better way to enjoy the football season.

Prothro, Harris Reunited in S.D.

James Harris, the quarterback Tommy Prothro brought to the L.A. Rams 4½ years ago, has been acquired by the Chargers for a future draft choice.

Prothro later became head coach of the Chargers. Said Prothro, "I have always had a high opinion of him. Everything he has done (since joining the Rams) has strengthened this opinion."

"At the least, Harris adds depth to our quarterback position, this is most important."

"Also, with the colleges playing more and more option football they will produce fewer pro quarterbacks. Qualified pro quarterbacks such as Harris will become more of a premium."

The 29-year-old Harris has completed seven seasons in the NFL. He was the Buffalo Bills' number eight draft choice in 1969. Harris started the season opener that year and two other games in the next two seasons before the Bills released him Sept. 21, 1972. Prothro was head coach of the Los Angeles Rams when they signed Harris to a 1973 contract on Nov. 6, 1972. Harris started 26 games for the Rams beginning in the sixth game of 1974 (after starter John Hadl was traded to Green Bay) and the Rams won 20 of those games. Harris was the top-ranked passer in the NFC in 1976.

Harris was with Buffalo 1969-1971 and with the Rams 1973-1976. His best year was 1975 when he completed 157 of 285 passes for 2,148 yards and 14 TD's.

Special Athletes In UCLA Olympics

The San Diego County Special Olympics will send 95 athletes to UCLA June 24 to compete in the CSSO Games. These are held on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Athletes will live in the UCLA dormitories and complete in track, field, floor hockey and swimming events. Approximately 2,500 retarded children and adults from throughout the state will be competing in a wide variety of athletic events.

The CSSO opens at 6 p.m. Friday, with the Parade of Athletes, Opening Exercises and Lighting of the Special Olympic Torch.

Ron LeBlanc, San Diego County Area Coordinator, assisted by District Coordinators: Walter Jackson, John Hopkins and Jeff Hale, will accompany the athletes, in addition to 19 chaperones.

The Special Olympic Oath is as follows: "Let me win, but if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt." For many retarded who have never had an opportunity to enter athletic competition, the joy of taking part is victory in itself.

Borg Likely Singles Pick As WTT All-Star Test Nears

Bjorn Borg heads a powerful men's squad selected to represent the eastern division in the World Team Tennis All-Star match at the Sports Arena July 9.

Borg, the 1976 Wimbledon champion playing in his first WTT season for the Cleveland Nets, figures to draw the singles assignment in the five-set All-Star format that begins at 8 p.m. and will be telecast nationally by NBC.

Vitas Gerulaitis, this year's Italian champion and a member of the Indiana Loves', along with Boston's Tony Roche and Roy Emerson were the remaining eastern division selections. WTT commissioner Butch Buchholz will name a fifth male player of the squad next week.

The women's teams previously announced are: Billie Jean King, Virginia Wade, Martina Navratilova and Sue Barker representing the east and Chris Evert, Francoise Durr, Kristien Shaw and Betty Stove for the west. All selected players are scheduled to participate.

Borg Dominates

Borg, although reacting

somewhat slowly at the start of the season to the WTT emphasis on pre-game pressure, has dominated singles opponents in winning 93 games while losing only 67. Roche, however, in leading Boston to the top of the eastern division, has done even better, 102-70 in singles competition.

Each coach Fred Stolle could elect to pair Roche and teammate Roy Emerson (the latter a four-time Wimbledon doubles champion) in doubles where both have done exceptionally well in WTT play, Emerson and Roche posting a 106-73 record in winning 14 of 19 matches.

That leaves Gerulaitis free for mixed doubles, a pleasant circumstance for a coach blessed with so much talent. The west won last year's All-Star match, 28-27, in a super-tiebreaker played in Oakland.

Although the full seating capacity of the Sports Arena will be used for the event, officials report that ticket sales are extremely brisk with over one-third of the seats already sold. Tickets may be purchased at the Sports Arena box office which is open daily.

Juniors 17 and under, boys and girls, will vie for handsome trophies.

The adult prize list also includes merchandise certificates up to $100, golf equipment including a new persimmon driver, golf accessories and free rounds of golf at StoneRidge.

All facilities at StoneRidge, including a portion of the driving range, will be open to the public.

StoneRidge is located about one mile east of Rancho Bernardo on Espola road in Poway.

Jablonski replaces Larry Justice, who will direct a summer program at Laver's Waterville Valley, N.H. camp. Justice, National Director of Tennis Operations for Laver, will continue to direct quality control for all Laver teaching services and will return to his San Vicente headquarters in the Fall.

Jablonski brings to his new post a background in tournament play as well as his collegiate honors. He was at one time ranked ninth nationally in 18-and-under doubles and has been associated with Rod Laver tennis activities in California for the past two years.

San Vicente Tennis Ranch is one of the outstanding tennis complexes in the Far West, with 20 championship courts, a $1.5 million clubhouse, and the latest in teaching facilities. It is in the scenic Ramona Oaks area of San Diego Country Estates, 39 miles northeast of San Diego.

OBSTACLE COURSE — Grossmont Hospital Administrator Ron Dahlgren, in wheelchair, tries his hand at navigating the specially designed course at the hospital's new physical therapy unit. He is guided by the Director of Physical Therapy Robert Yarris.

Physical and Mental Center

Dedication Ceremonies Held Sun. For G'mont Rehab Unit

Grossmont Hospital will open doors to the public Sunday on its new $3.8 million physical and mental rehabilitation center, the first of its kind in the East County area.

The new facility focuses on training wheelchair patients to cook, pick-up, and take care of themselves as well as offering services for mental patients.

"We will be the only facility in San Diego County with complete physical and mental rehabilitation services," said hospital administrator Dahlgren. "We will literally be a complete center — a one stop shopping center for rehabilitation patients."

Dahlgren said the new facility, separated into a physical and mental units, covers some 57,000 square feet total.

A rarity among local hospitals, the new center may take in patients from all over the county, Dahlgren said, and added only Sharp's Hospital in Kearny Mesa and Bay General in Chula Vista have facilities comparable.

Basically, each of the two units has 30 beds. The beds are not separated by walls but will have short five foot partitions separating patients.

There will be 30 beds in the unit, 22 used for the main center and the remaining used in intensive care. The average length of stay for the unit has been anticipated to be between 14-21 days.

Costs for both units will be on the basic $105 per day rate although additional costs may be assessed, Dahlgren said.

Both units will be dedicated at the site at 2 p.m. The center has been named in honor of long time hospital supporter and president of the Grossmont Board, Dr. William T. Soldmann, Jr.

Opening day for the new facility has been scheduled for July 1.

ed on July 1st but the complex problem of withholding tax from the proper area cannot be set up in 10 days, it was explained. However, the ordinance, and the subsequent signing of a contract with the State will provide that money and the service for the final quarter of 1977. The income will be paid to the city about January 15.

Tax Is Refunded

The county had estimated that Lemon Grove City would receive $757,000 a year from the sales tax jackpot. A quarter of that is $189,000.

Tom Parks, liaison between city and county, discovered the problem and used the power of county government to attempt to get the state adjust the deadline. That would have been illegal, he learned.

Parks said the projected revenue ($757,000) is still a good figure and that revenue should be that much or more for four quarters, but the $189,000 is gone forever.

Those who decided to make the city legal on July 1 can't be blamed. If they had made the effective date June 20 they would have obtained the $189,000 but would have gotten only 10 days of free county services instead of a full year — the latter amounting to well over a million dollars with police and traffic service counted in. As Parks opined, "it is like 'Catch 22'."

More county operational expertise was noted when Bob Stuermer, right-of-way agent of the Real Property Division of the County Public Works Agency reported on his negotiations with representatives of two possible sites for a city hall.

City Hall

One site is the one-story building at the corner of North and Main streets and the other is the 4-story building at Broadway and Massachusetts. Main street with square feet asked $726. Both month. Broadway, with 1910 figured 38 cents a square foot, figured 38 cents a square foot.

Three S.V. Men Win Honors For Wood

Three Spring Valley men have taken honors in Junior Fair competition at the 88th Annual Southern California Exposition at Del Mar.

Placing for their creations in woods were Eric A. James, first for his planter and bowl; David M. James, first for his sun drier; and Alan C. James, second for his tool box.

S.V. Men Fare Well At S. Bay Track

John Cartwright of Spring Valley, Ken Snelling and Johnny Silvas resume their battle Friday night at South Bay Park Speedway when the super stock cars return to share a program with the slam-bang street stockers.

Time trials for the super stocks begin at 7 p.m. on the dirt, quarter-mile banked oval. First race begins at 8:15 p.m.

There will also be heat races and a pair of trophy dashes in each of the divisions. The street stockers will take off in a 20-lapper while the supers will battle the dirt for 30 trips around the oval.

Cartwright is the SBRA points leader for super stocks with 425 points. He is followed by fellow Spring Valley pilot Jim Pavlick with 395.

Safe Boating Week

President Jimmy Carter has proclaimed the week of July 3 through 9 as National Safe Boating Week.

Suwara Returns To S.D. Breakers

The S.D. Breakers added Rudy Suwara, player-coach of last year's championship team, to their lineup and cut setter Pierre Marcoux from the team.

Gus Mee has been moved to the setter position and Ken Petersen, also a Breaker last year, has been added to the lineup for Friday's game against the Orange County Stars. Petersen's addition will give injured Duncan McFarland time to recover prior to the home opener June 30 against the Tucson Sky.

Bill Wardrop, present player-coach, said Friday's front line will be the same as last year's champions, "sort of like old home week."

"We're sorry to have cut Macoux, but his style of play doesn't fit with our offensive plans. I feel very good about Mee's move to setter. He has great hands and setting experience."

before effective until December 1978.

Those in the audience asked the fire board to reduce fire district taxes by using the surplus. Some said that incorporation campaigners promised a reduction from 86.8 cents — the Fire District tax — to 75 cents, the rate which is guaranteed maximum when the city can set the tax rate.

Two things were wrong with the requests. One, the Fire Department will not be dissolved and become part of the City of Lemon Grove until November. It must support itself until then. Second: the City cannot set a tax rate until July 1978. Property owners will pay their first L.G. City tax in December 1978. The rate will be predicated on the assessed value of the property within Lemon Grove City and these figures are gathered on the first Monday of March each year. There was no city in March 1977. March 1978 is when Lemon Grove's own tax rate process begins.

At the Monday meeting, Leo Bodin, unsuccessful candidate for council, insisted that candidates had promised a 75 cent tax rate would be given when the city became official. He showed a piece of his own literature in which the promise was made. "No one told me it was not correct," he said. He suggested a zero base budget and a reduction to 75 cents to replace the present 86.8 cents rate.

Speech Read
Jack Doherty, a successful candidate for council, read a prepared speech in which he said "... the Fire District will not fold if it chooses to reduce its tax rate." He said his concern was caused by a "great number of citizens who believed their taxes were going down July 1, 1977. The Fire District can survive on a 75 cent tax rate or less. To keep it at 86.8 will only assure that a substantial surplus will be carried to the new city. The people should be the ones to decide between surpluses and lower taxes," he said.

Karen Thomson, who headed the Committee for Incorporation and made presentations at 20 or more public meetings said that it was never said that the Fire District would reduce its rate. "It was said that the Fire District would dissolve in November 1977 and the City could set a tax rate no higher than 75 cents."

David Spisak, a successful candidate for the Lemon

will be a hard man to replace. "He was a dedicated, reliable officer, I hate to lose him." Experienced investigators are hard to replace," Jacobs said. Lindsay was highly visible in Lemon Grove and Spring Valley. His quotient of solved cases was high, it was said.

The detective force of 14 people is now down 4 according to Sgt. Jacobs. "We were understaffed with 14," Sgt. Jacobs said. "We now face vacation time with only 10 men on duty."

Another manpower problem faces the entire department. Vacation time must be taken in time rather than money. Many officers have as many as 10 weeks due them.

Capt. George Dodson, officer in charge of the Lemon Grove office said police coverage in the big L.G.-Spring Valley area would be to the ultimate in manpower available. "It was then when we had a full force. We may have to establish a priority system if a rash of crimes occur. Officers are dedicated, sincere people but there is a question as to how far their effort can be spread.

Lindsy's last day is July 21.

DMV Considers 12 Year Drivers Licenses To Help Cut Costs

SACRAMENTO — Pressure from a legislature study group may force the Department of Motor Vehicles to increase fees to the state's drivers.

The group, the Joint Legislative Budget Committee, is pushing the DMV to stop the dwindling of reserves in the motor vehicle bank account.

The DMV is considering the following proposals:

—Change the length of driver's licenses from three to 12 years and assessing a higher fee,

—up the fees for license or registration information to collect some $2.3 million,

—assess a $3 increase on traffic fines and collect an additional $15 million,

—register vehicles every other year which will net about $4.6 million, —increase the use-tax to collect an additional $1 million, and reduce operations costs by reducing services by $5.7 million.

These cuts in services and increases in fees will give DMV's bank account about $34 million more to work with.

The proposals are chiefly the work of the state's department of Program Development and Evaluation.

A spokesman for that department said "while fee increases would be a solution for every program for which costs exceed the revenues collected, this solution does not address concerns of the Legislature and the public regarding efficiency in government and the rapid growth of large bureaucracies."

New Bill Would Ban Mobilehome Deposit

SACRAMENTO — A proposal which could mean substantial savings for California mobilehome owners received a 67-0 vote of approval on the floor of the Assembly last week.

Assembly Bill 458 would prohibit mobilehome park owners from demanding security deposits from their tenants.

"Major legislation enacted last year limits fees for mobilehome dwellers to rent, utilities, and reasonable service charges. AB 458 would further strengthen the rights of mobilehome owners by doing away with an unjustified fee," Tom Suitt, co-sponsor of the bill said.

The bill clarifies that the current trailer park lien law also applies to mobilehome parks, and that the lien law covers unpaid rent, utilities and damage to the premises caused by the tenant.

Since the park owner has a current lien, a security deposit is unnecessary.

Supported by the Golden State Mobilehome Owners League, the measure now goes to the Senate.

Senior Citizens Ask

Answers On Property Tax And Rent Assistance

This is the first of a series of four columns about Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance and the recently enacted Senior Citizens Rent Assistance Law. This column discusses who is qualified for assistance.

WHO'S QUALIFIED —

RENT ASSISTANCE

Q. I just heard about the Senior Citizens Rent Assistance Law and I think I might be qualified. What are the filing requirements?

A. Senior Citizens Rent Assistance is a new program, enacted last year by the State Legislature. You can file from May 16 through August 31, 1977.

The law authorizes refunds to people 62 years of age or older, who lived in a rented residence between July 1, 1976 and June 30, 1977, and whose household income was not more than $5,000.

Q. I'm 62 years old and my income last year was under $4,000. I take care of my daughter's children weekdays in exchange for room and board. Can I get rent assistance?

A. If the value of your services exceeds $50 a month, they are considered rent. Providing you meet the other requirements, you would qualify for Senior Citizens Rent Assistance.

Q. My sister and I are both over 62 and we each get under $5,000 social security a year. We share an apartment. Can we both get rent assistance?

A. If two or more qualified individuals share the rent for the same premises and each contributes more than $50 a month, both are entitled to Senior Citizens Rent Assistance.

A married couple, however, is considered to be one renter.

Q. I live in public housing. Can I get rent assistance?

A. The Senior Citizens Rent Assistance Law specifically excludes residents of public housing from eligibility because this property is not subject to property taxes.

WHO'S QUALIFIED — PROPERTY TAX ASSISTANCE

J. I'm 64 years old and earned $4,500 from a retirement pension and $846 in interest last year. Can I get property tax assistance?

A. It sounds as though you are eligible for Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance. To qualify you must have been 62 years old as of January 1, 1977, lived in your own home last year, had less than $12,000 total household income and have been a California resident.

Q. My brother and I bought a home together last year. We're both over 62. Can we each get property tax assistance?

A. Only one claim for Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance can be filed per household. If both you and your brother own and live in the home, only one of you is eligible for assistance; however, the income of the other must be included in total household income.

If you and your brother own the home 50/50, but only one lives in the house, only the one living in the house is eligible for assistance. In such a case assistance is granted for 50 percent of the total allowable tax.

Speaks to Reporters

Cranston Optimistic About Defeat of Espionage Act

SANTA ANA—The five year attempt at an official U.S. government "secrets act" barring newsmen from official documents may be thwarted Senator Alan Cranston divulged.

Speaking before the Orange County Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, on June 3, Cranston (D-Calif.) said essentially the "five year effort to use a proposed reform of the U.S. Criminal Code as a vehicle for an official secrets act has been stopped dead in its tracks."

Cranston told the journalists seven "pernicious" sections constituting an official secrets act have been dropped from a draft of the Criminal Code reform bill. The bill, formerly S-1, a product of writing done by former Nixon Attorney John Mitchell and now logged in the Senate bill hopper as S-1437, seeks to add new reforms to the bulging U.S. Criminal Code.

At issue are seven sections including three sections which would make it easier to convict reporters and government informants of espionage. Three separate sections of the bill would create a new federal crime: unauthorized disclosure of "classified" defense information.

These sections have now been dumped by the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Criminal Law chaired by Senator Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.). Also approving the drop was the current U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell.

"We must protect national security and legitimate defense secrets," Cranston said,

"But these provisions, under the guise of protecting national defense would permit the Executive Branch to set up a screen of secrecy to control practically all discussion and debate over U.S. military and intelligence activities."

"They would severely limit the ability of Congress and the press to uncover waste, corruption, and illegal activities in our defense program," the Senator continued, "Only the official statements, speeches and briefings would be available to the public."

Cranston warned although the bill now carries no provisions for such, there are still groups on Capitol Hill seeking to silence reporters' questions.

"The love of secrecy seems to be part of the genetic make-up of government bureaucrats regardless of what party is in power or who is in the White House."

Railroad Issue Up to Public Says Supervisor Moore

The community must make its views known if abandonment of the San Diego and Arizona Eastern Railway is to be prevented, Supervisor Lucille V. Moore said.

Moore, chairman of a task force of government and civic agencies studying the abandonment issue, said the railway has given notice it intends to file abandonment application with the Interstate Commerce Commission about June 30.

"Time is growing short for San Diego to decide whether it is interested in maintaining rail service along the SD&AE main line and the Coronado and La Mesa-El Cajon branches," Moore said.

"Any interested party must file written comments or a petition requesting an investigation with the ICC by August 4, with a copy to Southern Pacific Transportation Co., owner of the railroad.

Need Immediate
"Notification by SD&AE confirms the immediate need for shippers along the line to let us know what the effect of an abandonment would be on their businesses. In the past 89 percent of the abandonment applications have been printed by the ICC often because opposition has not been effectively coordinated."

The Board of Supervisors has not taken a position on the abandonment pending completion of a County staff analysis. The Board is expected to decide the County's position before the August deadline.

The County has been without SD&AE direct service from and to the Imperial Valley since last September when Hurricane Kathleen caused an estimated $3 million worth of damage to tracks and bridges.

Mrs. Moore said shippers and others affected by the railway also should be aware that freight rates could increase if the ICC permits the abandonment.

"At the present time shippers are paying the same rates as before the hurricane," Mrs. Moore said.

"If the abandonment is ordered, shippers could be subject to negotiating higher rates towing to a much longer route than the direct route used by SD&AE. The ICC re-routing order now in effect fixes rates at the same levels existing before Hurricane Kathleen. That order expires September 30."
